The Pandemic and the Global Economy

Tuesday, April 20, 7 PM

Steve Marks

Elden Smith Professor of Economics
Coordinator of International Relations Program
Pomona College

Professor Marks has a Ph.D. in Economics from Princeton University and has expertise in International Economics, Microeconomics, and Indonesia. He writes, “Despite progress with vaccines and other medical treatments for the coronavirus, much of the world remains fragile economically. A variety of complications present serious dangers to a smooth recovery and may further expose political divisions in the United States and around the world.”

The “Global Issues Programs” are free and open to the public. Please contact cmartin335@gmail.com or martina.ebert@pomona.edu for Zoom information.
